in the history of Red Deer the taxes rolled in as they have in the past. The city of Red Deer is greatly pleased with the result. At the expiration of the year of grace over $57,000 had been received, which is more than the cost of this year's levy, and four thousand dollars more in the entire amount paid in 1919 than in 1918.

A wonderful showing, and that the city has not only the money to pay its bills, but has the means to do everything possible to help the authorities to conduct the business of the community with credit and to the satisfaction of all concerned.

LIQUOR UNDER GOV-ERNMENT CONTROLCommissioner Suggests Opening of Vendors' Stores in Cities.

Edmonton, March 30.—"I would strongly recommend that the sale of liquor should be placed entirely under government control," is one of the striking statements in the annual report of the provincial police department issued over the written signature of S. W. C. Bryan, superintendent of police, and bearing the typewritten signature of A. G. Gully, commissioner.

The statement is contained in a review of the difficulties the provincial police found in enforcing the act during the last year. "I have been informed," continues the statement, "by people who intend going into the liquor business if permitted, that as far as prices are concerned, the government vendors can undersell them. If such is the case, then to my mind the public should benefit, and not the individual by the profits that are made, and I would suggest that more vendors' stores should be opened, say three in Edmonton, three in Calgary, one in Lethbridge, one in Medicine Hat, and one in Red Deer, and that a permit or license should be issued by the government for the nominal fee of 25 cents, which would be held by the vendor, and the holder or reputable citizens could obtain, allowing them so much per week or per month as may be decided, and that one purchase of any liquor, which would be only through the vendors' stores, the same should be endorsed by the vendor on the back of any permit, and any misuse of the permit bring instant cancellation. But the government handling the traffic in this way, the revenue would go to the government instead of into the pockets of the bootlegging doctor, druggists and the professional bootleggers.

CANNOT ENFORCE ACT.
"It is impossible to enforce this act as it should be enforced, as it stands at present. One of the reasons, and the chief of them in my opinion, being that a very large percentage of the citizens of this province break this act indirectly and even those who do not drink and who voted for prohibition are very loath to give any evidence against those who do break the law."

While the report states that there were 705 convictions under the Liquor Act, this does take account of the re-organization of the provincial police since last August, under a special commissioner when a special plain clothes force was organized under Inspector Hodgkins, and the work of prosecuting liquor offenders begun. After referring to the difficulties of enforcing the act because of the large profits in illicit traffic, the report states that with the passing of prohibition in Montana on January 1 last, the work became somewhat easier as a stop was put to the smuggling in of liquor over the border. A good deal of work also is entailed in trying to prevent shipments going the other way by forged prescriptions.

IS MUCH CRITICIZED.
"The medical profession," says the report, "has been very much criticized over the issuing of prescriptions because some of the members of the profession, and very few of them, made it practically their sole business for the sake of the money that is in it, while on the other hand the majority of men would not, under any consideration, issue a prescription unless for medical purposes. Some of them lost considerable business on that account."

"Now that the war order-in-council has been cancelled, permitting inter-provincial shipments of liquor again, the traffic is going to be very much harder to deal with. There is no doubt that the province will be flooded with liquor for the so-called liquor export warehouses. Large shipments will be made in view of a referendum being taken prohibiting these shipments, which if carried out will result in liquor being cached all over the province as in April, 1913." The report then makes the recommendation for the sale of liquor under government control.

LARGE INFLUX OF SETTLERS PREDICTED

"The influx of settlers from south of the boundary will be greater this season than that of any recent year," declared J. Colley, publicity agent of the C.P.R. department of colonization. Mr. Colley has just returned from a visit to Chicago, St. Paul and other cities of the United States. While a considerable number of settlers are already beginning to arrive in Canada, many are waiting for favorable weather reports. As soon as these are satisfactory, the main tide of settlement will begin to move. The people of the republic have more money than they have had at any previous time. They are much interested in the advantage which the present exchange situation holds for them, combined with the advantage of obtaining farm lands at much lower prices than those prevailing in old established settlements.

A CONCRETE INSTANCE.
Mr. Colley cited the case of an Iowa farmer who recently sold his land for $450 an acre, exchanged his money into Canadian currency, which gave him an added $4 an acre, came to Alberta and purchased irrigated land at Coadville for $100 an acre. In another instance a farmer of Wyoming paid $130 an acre for irrigated land at Coadville, no buildings or other improvements entering into the consideration. The exchange situation is not quite so favorable to the United States settler entering Canada as it was a few weeks ago, but it still provides what is in effect a substantial reduction in the purchase price of Canadian land.

"Some years ago," Mr. Colley remarked, "the task of agents in the United States was to induce United States farmers to take an interest in Canadian lands. Now the opportunities which the Canadian west presents are well known, and the question most frequently asked is, 'When is the most favorable time to come.'"

SOLDIER WANTS
CANADA TO KNOWNerves and Stomach Shattered in War—Is Restored by Taking Tanlac

"I have been so greatly benefited by Tanlac that you can put unqualified endorsement of the medicine in every paper in Canada," is the statement of Henry Cheffins, of 2100 Broder St., Regina, Sask., to a Tanlac representative recently. Mr. Cheffins, who is an electrician, is widely known in his trade, having worked in Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba as well as Saskatchewan. He enlisted in 1914 and served overseas with the 2nd Canadian Divisional Horse Transport.

"It was while overseas that my stomach and nerves gave way," continued Mr. Cheffins, "and I spent three months in different hospitals in England. When air raids were expected I would get in a terrible state of tremble like a leaf and have to walk and walk around to get my nerves quieted. It usually took an hour or more to get to bed. I would be so jumpy. My stomach was frightfully bad and about twice a week I would be deathly sick and nauseated. I could expect one of these attacks of nausea every Friday just as sure as the day rolled around. I had a very nice one on that day for nearly a year. I had a heavy, uncomfortable feeling in my stomach. I could not eat any pastry or fat meats, and especially mutton was like so much poison in my system. My wife did not know what to cook for me, for often I would get so sick at the table I could not sit up and would have to lie down."

"I took a lot of medicine, but they didn't seem to hit the spot. I was when I returned to Canada I was as bad off as ever. About two months ago I got a job, but sometimes I shook so from nervousness that I couldn't do a thing."

"One day after a particularly bad attack I made-up my mind to give Tanlac a trial, and right after I began taking the medicine I passed my first Friday without having one of those bad attacks of nausea. I want to tell you it was a wonderful relief. I have taken only four bottles, my stomach never gives me any trouble at all now, and the other day I ate some mutton just to see if it would hurt me and it didn't, not a particle. My nerves have improved so much they are about as steady as they ever were in my life, and I sleep sound as a log every night. I feel about as well and strong as I did before I went to war, and both my wife and I are enthusiastic over Tanlac. I hope my statement will encourage some other fellow to take it, for there is no reason why it won't help others as it has helped me."

Tanlac is sold in Red Deer by Galt-Cornett Drug & Book Co., and by the leading druggist in every town.

$20,000,000 HAS BEEN VOTED FOR SHIPBUILDINGOpposition Wants to Know Where Money is Coming From Before Submitting

Ottawa, March 30.—Demanding from the government as to where the money was coming from, before the opposition would agree to vote $20,000,000 for shipbuilding estimates which the house had spent nearly the whole of the day on the Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition, threw a bombshell into the debate at a few minutes after midnight.

"We believe," he declared, "that it would be against the interests of the people of this country to vote $20,000,000, as we are asked to do here, until we know where that money is coming from." Mr. King demanded that the government make a statement as to whether it was prepared to raise this money by loan or in what manner. He declared that as far as the opposition was concerned, there would be no vote on the question until they had that statement. Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, reminded the leader of the opposition that it had always been the custom to await the bringing down of the budget, and the budget was always the first intimation of the government's financial plans. He said, however, that the opposition was always another popular loan being launched.

INTIMIDATION ATTEMPT
Hon. N. W. Rowell declared that Mr. King had attempted to intimidate the government and had raised a question which was entirely contrary to parliamentary procedure since the time of confederation. Mr. King's position was entirely unwarranted and unprecedented, and he would inform the leader of the opposition that he could not intimidate the government in that manner.

Hon. C. B. Bannatyne said he had given the opposition all the information humanly possible. He had answered every one of their questions fully and now must ask that the item be allowed to pass.

Mr. King closed the incident with the statement that as the minister of finance had made the desired statement to the effect that there would be no loan this year, the opposition would pass the item. This was a matter in which the people of the country were vitally interested and he resented the charge of intimidation. He asked when the budget would be brought down and warned the government that the attitude of the opposition in regard to public expenditure would be reflected in a large measure by what was in the budget. They had no wish to impede the passage of legislation, but intended to guard the people's interests. The item carried and the house rose shortly after midnight.

TROOPS ARE GUARDING ALL ROADS

Precautions Taken Owing to Rumor of Easter Uprising in Ireland.

London, April 3.—Armed troops were on duty along all roads leading to Londonderry last night, motor cars were minutely searched, and drivers had to produce permits and declare their business, says a Central News dispatch from Dublin. It is believed this military activity had something to do with rumors of an Easter uprising.

PASSENGERS SEARCHED

Belfast, April 3.—In addition to pronounced military activity in the vicinity of Londonderry today all the roads about the town are being patrolled. The passengers who arrived by the Scotch boat at Londonderry were searched by the police. Mean while violent scenes were reported taking place among the Sinn Féin prisoners confined in Londonderry jail.

Unusual activity also was displayed by the authorities at Duglisk, midway between Belfast and Dublin, special patrols being posted to all approaches to the town. The drivers of motor cars, which vehicles were numerous on the roads because of the Easter-tide activities, were required to produce their permits.

There was great military activity in the suburbs of Dublin today, according to the dispatch. Parties of soldiers with armored cars took up positions shortly after midnight. Just outside the city boundaries, and all vehicles approaching the capital were searched. Hay carts received particular attention and the tramway passengers from Lucan, about seven miles west of Dublin, also were searched.

FEED SITUATION MOST CRITICAL

Government Not Able to Buy Enough Hay to Carry Horses Through Seeding Period.

Edmonton, April 3.—The feed situation in Alberta is now very critical, and the government will not be able to buy enough hay in eastern Canada or elsewhere to supply feed for horses during the seeding period.

HAS CARRIAGE ORDER

Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture, moving the adjournment of the legislature on Friday to discuss a matter of grave importance, made this statement, and urged the members of the legislature to warn their constituents to buy the feed they require wherever they can get it. Hon. Mr. Maclean, who is now in Ontario, has purchased as much as he can get, but reports that the Ontario supply is not adequate to meet the needs.

The government now has on order 800 carloads of hay, which is arriving at the rate of 25 to 30 cars per day, and when all the feed purchased by the government reaches Alberta there will be between 2,000 and 2,400 carloads imported into the province.

The government has adopted the principle of buying hay outside the province and shipping it wherever needed, and is not purchasing feed available within the province for shipment to any other section of the province.

Hon. Mr. Marshall explained that some time ago the province had stopped buying feed from outside in anticipation of a normal spring, and owing to the fact that 100 cars had arrived at Lethbridge after the demand had fallen off and when had to be stored at considerable expense. When it became evident that the demand would be revived, the government had purchased every carload it could get.

The free freight rate is being extended by the railroads until May 1, and is applicable without any limitation as to price, and to green feed as well as hay.

Mr. Marshall warned the house and the public that there is not now enough feed available to feed the horses through seeding, and advised any farmer knowing of a supply which he could procure for himself from outside to make suitable arrangements or to notify the government and make arrangements for transportation through the department. In addition to Ontario, canvasses have been made in Oregon, Washington, Minnesota, etc., without success.

Mr. George Hoadley urged the government to procure the use of as many tractors as possible, and make them available on a community basis through the municipalities. Hon. Mr. Marshall replied that he had communicated with the Noble farm and others, urging them to make surplus tractors available for road work, and the expert tractor man from the agricultural shows was prepared for service.

NEWS WEEKLY SERMON

By REV. GEO. D. ARMSTRONG

Ought not Christ to have suffered these things and to enter into His Glory.—Luke 24:26.

To reproach sorrowing ones with folly and unbelief seems a strange way of comforting, yet it was in this manner that Jesus proceeded to dispel the gloom which had settled down upon His disciples after His crucifixion. The walk to Emmaus was an incident that has in it a great deal of suggestion for comfort and instruction.

Two of Jesus' disciples were talking together of the calamity that had overtaken them, and as they did so Jesus himself drew near and began to talk with them. The human heart is peculiarly receptive in times of overwhelming sorrow. Hungering for consolation, we listen intently for any message that will cheer our despondent soul. At such a time the presence of the Master is very near. He is not always recognized however, and in this instance the eyes of the disciples were hidden that they should not know Him. Entering into conversation with them Jesus led them to unbuckle their sandals, by telling of the hopes they had had not only for themselves but for the nation, their bewilderment and despair because the one whom they trusted to deliver Israel had unjustly been put to death by Israel's leaders.

They told him also of the mystery which surrounded his disappearance, and the report of the women that they had seen a vision of angels who had told them that Jesus was alive. Though the doctrine of the Resurrection had long obtained in the teaching of the Pharisees, the fact of Resurrection was so far removed from the experience and expectation of the disciples that they were slow of heart to accept its comforting truth.

Having listened to their statement, Jesus proceeded to remove them from their folly and unbelief and challenge their doubt with an appeal to reason. Ought not Christ to have suffered these things and to enter into His glory? Then he rapidly reviewed the history of Israel, showing that the principle of suffering had long obtained as the nation had made progress in the course which led up to the coming of the Christ and the completion of His mission.

In his latest book "The Vital Message," Dr. Conan Doyle rejects the Old Testament as a faulty revelation and implies that theologians would help the cause of religion by taking "so heroic a step as to tear the Bible in twain, laying one half upon the shelf and the other upon the table." He also suggests that in its doctrine of vicarious suffering "the church has laid a wrong emphasis upon the story of Christ." In taking this position, Conan Doyle does justice neither to the facts of history nor the truths of experience.

He has seized upon features of the Old Testament which reflect the primitive conditions through which a progressive revelation has been made, but he has mistaken the kernel of scripture for the kernel of truth contained in it. No revelation is adequate which is not adequate to the law of suffering pervades all life. It is seen in all stages of growth, and in the richest development of the vicarious suffering of the "highest and holiest manhood."

The experience through which the disciples passed when Jesus was crucified, has been repeated in the overwhelming suffering and sacrifice of the last few years. It has been possible to endure only because we recognized that the issues could be decided only upon a basis which would be justice to human righteousness and which would establish a wider freedom. We were able to discover a glory in the gloom, and knew that whatever might be the barbarity displayed, the loss endured, the real values of life would be conserved. Our suffering and sacrifice were noble because of our faith in God and humanity, our hope of a better day and the deeper assurance which has come to us of human immortality.

It is not to be wondered at that the lives of the disciples were quickened to new enthusiasm and fired with renewed energy as history and experience was unfolded to them under the illuminating teaching of Jesus. They realized in that moment that they had not lived in vain; that all they had willed and dreamed of human good would exist—never had ceased to exist in the undying life of God. The truth which came to them on that glad Resurrection day is gripping with new power the hearts and souls of men in this our day.

Wait will it be for us also if we can discover the presence of the Master as He makes Himself known in the bringing of bread. A strange new peace shall possess us if in the daily round and the common task we shall be able to relate our trivial interests to the purpose of the Eternal. "Drop thy still deeds of quietness, 'Till all our strivings cease." Take from our souls the strain and stress, And let our ordered lives confess "The beauty of thy peace."

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7th, 1920.

A CALAMITY.

The shortage of feed and the long severe winter has been nothing short of a great disaster to the province of Alberta. The government has been doing heroic work, trying to supply the demand for hay, but the minister of agriculture has virtually told the farmers that they have got to the limit of the supply, and the farmer must hunt for feed to supply his stock.

The writer, in speaking to J. F.
Day on the question, was informed by Mr. Day, who has just returned from the spring live stock show at Edmonton, that the losses this winter and spring will amount to pretty nearly half the stock in the province. Hundreds of yange horses in the east country are dead, owing to the deep snow, as it is impossible to get feed and the horses are unable to get down to the grass. Prices have gone up to a high figure, two men from Bawlf, Friday, purchased two cars of hay in Red Deer for $60 a ton, and even straw has been selling from $12 to $15 a ton, and the Red Deer district is one of the most fortunate in the province, as we not only had plenty of feed, but have sold many thousands of dollars worth to outside points.

If warm weather does not come at once, there will be a great shortage of feed even here.

A MAD EDITOR.

Delburne Progress: If the party who sent the Editor an anonymous letter last week and would call around at the Progress office they would get their sound advice handed back. And we would like to say that if there is anything the world hates, it is a dirty, low-down sneak that is a sneak that is afraid to put their name to a personal letter. They are lower than a snake—if you know how low the snake is—and we are not saying anything except we have the best idea in the world who the party is,
and what's more we have a good mind
to let everyone else know.

Twelve thousand cases of Scotch whiskey arrived in Vancouver last week from Australia on the steamer Nagara. This was the greatest shipment of liquor ever received in that city, and it was guarded as closely as boxes of gold are guarded. This may explain the great exodus to Vancouver of so many people of late.

MUNICIPAL DISTRICT
HONOR J. W. HEY

A number of Mr. J. W. Hey's friends from the city and district, especially in connection with the M. D. of Pine Lake, gave a farewell luncheon in his honor at the Commercial on Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Among those present were Messrs. J. W. Hey, Mayor, and Messrs. J. W. Hey, Mayor, and Messrs.
W. E. Plater, ex-Reeve W. J. Reay,
Councillor W. E. Plater, ex-Reeve W. J.
W. E. Plater, ex-Reeve W. J. Reay,
Councillor W. E. Plater, ex-Reeve W. J.
W. E. Plater, ex-Reeve W. J. Reay,
Councillor W. E. Plater, ex-Reeve W. J.

After a very tasty luncheon put on in the Commercial's finished suite, the honor was done to the King and to the guest of the day, Mr. Plater read the following address:

J. W. Hey, Esq.,
Retiring Sec'y-Treas. of the Municipal District of Pine Lake, No. 339

Dear Mr. Hey—
Your many friends in Red Deer and district, especially those connected with the Council of the Municipal District of Pine Lake, of which you have been Secretary-Treasurer for four years, could not allow you to leave Red Deer without some expression of their esteem and good wishes.

You have been a most efficient accountant and officer of the Municipal District, and you have been ever ready to lend a helping hand to social and dramatic events in the town. You had distinctive gifts which we have greatly appreciated and enjoyed.

Like others of us, you have had your times of grave anxiety during the great war, but we rejoice that Flight Lieut. Hey will be able to join you, and we trust that you and Mrs. Hey, and Lieut. Hey and his English bride, will have a happy life in the more southern climate to which you are going in Virginia. You carry with you our warmest wishes for your future happiness, and we ask you to accept this small gift as a remembrance for you and Mrs. Hey from Red Deer friends.

Signed on behalf of the M.D. of Pine
Lake,
E. H. PICKLEY, Deputy Reeve,
Signed on behalf of the City of Red Deer,
W. E. LORD, Mayor.

Mr. T. A. Gault, in making the presentation of a set of carving knives and dinner knives and forks, spoke most highly of Mr. Hey's citizenship and service to the community, and his ready help where his special gifts were needed. Senator Michener and Mayor Lyon also added their testimony to Mr.
Hey's worth, and wished him all success.

Mr. Hey made feeling reply to the kindness of his friends. He would never forget his happy associations in Red Deer, and he regretted that the state of Mrs. Hey's health compelled removal to a warmer climate. He had once before left Red Deer, to return after a couple of years absence and he might be back again.

Mr. T. A. Gault also on behalf of Chas. Chuek and Geo. Moon, proprietors of the Cafe, presented Mr. Hey with a glass of champagne, as a slight token of his kindness to them.

The gathering broke up at 3.15 with Auld Lang Syne.

The committee in charge—Messrs.
McKinnon, chairman; W. E. Plater, Gault—are to be congratulated on the success of the affair. The absence of Reeve Plater and Councillor McKinnon was unavoidable.

FRESH OUTRAGE IN COUNTY CORK; BARRACKS BURNED

Mobilization of Republican Forces is Becoming Stronger.

Dublin, April 1.—The south of Ireland is ablaze again. Destruction by fire of the police barracks at Durrus, county Cork, is the latest outrage carried out by the disaffected extremists of this fiery district. This news is accompanied by strange reports from good sources, corroborating to some extent Arthur Griffith's statement that after the coroner's verdict at the inquest into the death of the lord mayor of Cork, something is to happen worth while waiting for.

Evidence of a gradual mobilization of "republican" forces in the various districts in the south is becoming stronger. The Northcote press, which hitherto has not been unfriendly to the Nationalists, by its definite statement unsupported by real evidence, that the lord mayor of Cork was murdered by Sinn Féin, has done much to increase bitterness. The atmosphere in Dublin is growing tense, in expectation of events in the coming week, and the authorities are drawing the dragnet closer around the suspected districts.

There were extensive raids in Limerick yesterday, and nine prisoners were taken to Cork handcuffed and under a strong escort. A most peculiar and significant allegation is now made regarding the soldier, Molloy, who was shot on a Dublin street a week ago. It is stated Molloy had shown orders from general headquarters, transferring him to the Aldershot command before he was murdered. Apparently he remained in Ireland.

EXAMINER'S REVIEW OF PROVINCIAL MARKETS

(Saturday, April 3)

Cattle

Well-finished steers continue to attract the buyers at the Calgary yards, and prices are possibly a shade steeper than a week ago. With the top steers at $14.00 and other select offerings from $12.25 up; good butcher steers, $11.50; and medium quality steers from $11.25 down, and feeder buyers taking the lighter ones out at $9.50 down. There has not been as many good cows in, but the market would probably hold unchanged on them, with the choice ones $11.10 to $12; good butchers, $9.25 to $10.75. Bulls have been scarce, but the market is a little slower and lower, with the best sales at $7.50; calves are also scarce and a little weaker. Hogs are running fairly heavy at Edmonton yards, but condition of the cattle shows that many are being turned off before being finished, owing to lack of feed, and there were not many really top cattle, with the range of prices on the best from $12 to $13.50; good butchers, $10.50 to $12. Choice cows will bring $12, or a little better, with the range down to $10.50. There is some movement in stocker steers and heifers, but it is weather uncertainty is handicapping everything. Some very nice ones are coming on the market, and prices are up in some cases to $11. Bulls are a moderate sale.

Hogs

Last week's hog market closed steady and strong, but receipts at the Calgary yards up to the present have not been sufficient to get the buyers excited. There were a few on the market today, and the price on them was $20.50.

Hogs have been coming in fairly steadily to Edmonton yards, but though there was a break in prices from the high mark of the past couple of weeks, yesterday's sales were at $20.50.

Sheep

Receipts light at Calgary yards; have been practically nil, but quotations would probably be above last week's quotations.

Horses

City auctions during the week, except on the heavy teams in good condition and showing quality, have been very slow, and the demand very slack. On the other hand there are buyers for all the outstanding teams, and prices on them are running from $200 up, and during the week more could have been handled. The bulk of the average teams are selling from $400 down.

Grain

The week has been a most uneventful one in the grain markets. Prices show only a moderate change from a week ago, and with seedling conditions over in the United States going on favorably, there are those who look for lower markets.

Produce

Eggs are quoted a little stronger this week, and the range of prices is from $11.40 to $12.00, and not too many coming up to the present. Buyers should start to watch the quality of their purchases now, as some shipments are showing poor quality. Dairy butter is in good demand, and the prices are advanced on the choice table grades. Fancy, from 50c to 55c; No. 1, 45c to 50c; No. 2, 42c down; off grades, no demand. Creamery butter holding at previous advance; cream unchanged. Potato market a little easier owing to more active movement, and prices from $5 to $7, according to quality. Live poultry movements very light; prices advanced.

Hay

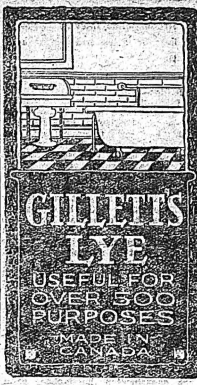

Condition very serious in many places, and dealers unable to get hay or green feed to fill orders. Bidding prices at country points on hay range from $38 to $45; stacked green feed, $22 to $25; stock very hard to handle and quoted from $30 down.

Hides

Continued improvement is shown in the hide market and all beef hides are a couple of cents over last week's advance, quotations being: Butcher, green salted, 18c to 19c; frozen hides, 16c to 17c; kip skins, 22c to 25c; calf skins, unchanged, at 30c to 32c.

Furs

Trade conditions have not settled down after the Montreal sale sufficiently to permit of new prices being quoted, and for the present the dealers are quoting all furs unchanged.

IDLE THOUGHTS OF A-BUSY FARMER

At the annual convention of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance in Toronto, the Rev. Sidney Lambert said I would rather have many had won the war than to have these people ruling us and damning our young men with their lies. That is the kind of ignorant "display" talk some would-be enthusiasts shoot off, and which does infinite harm to the cause they would support. If the Rev. Sidney had just stopped half a minute to think before letting off this grotesque fire rocket, where would he, the Dominion Alliance or any other association of free Britons for uplift and public morality, be today if the Germans had won?

From the New York Tribune: "At luncheon City, Feb. 25th.—The condition of Mrs. [name] who is seriously ill here with pleurisy is said tonight to be satisfactory." Does that mean it is satisfactory that she is seriously ill?

Lawyer Russell: "When I don't catch the name of the person I've been introduced to ask if it's spelled with an i or an e; it generally works too." Dr. Bonnell: "I used to try that dodge myself until I would rather speak the whole evening." Russell: "What was her name?" Bonnell: "I found out later it was Mrs. Hill."

Customer at Lord's grocery: "This coffee is nothing but mud." Clerk: "Yes, sir, it was ground this morning." In his book "Chasing Winds," Mr. St. John Erskine says that as a first step to settling the Irish question he would hang Carson and De Valera. Carson first. To hang Carson and De Valera together is about on a par with bracketing the ex-Kaiser and Albert of Prussia. Carson was ready to fight; De Valera started to do so. The Kaiser went to war and did the King of the Belgians. But Carson and the Ulster volunteers were ready to fight to maintain their positions as citizens of the British Empire. De Valera started his fight for the purpose of dismembering the British Empire. He has helped Germany, and has said that as far as Ireland was concerned, it desired that Germany should defeat England. Ulster, like Belgium, simply wanted to be left alone. De Valera wanted to destroy by force a union that has existed for over a century. Carson is today urging the people of Ulster to give a fair trial to the Home Rule experiment that must be abhorrent to most of them. De Valera is doing everything he can to harass and embarrass any such arrangements.

Since the railroad came into Bentley, and made too large a "hazard" across the links, "cow pasture" pool seems to have died in the barn. At least we have not heard of another golf course being laid out anywhere around.

"Did you tell him the truth when he asked you how old you were?" "Oh, yes." "What did you say?" "That it was none of his business."

An Englishman, a Scotchman and an Irishman were indulging in reminiscences of sporting events. "The closest race I ever saw was a yacht race," said the Englishman, "in which one of the boats had been recently rejected won by the breadth of the coat of paint."

"The closest race I ever saw," declared the Scotchman, "was one in which a horse stung by a bee won by the height of the swelling on its neb."

"The closest race I ever saw," said the Irishman, "is the Scotch." Dad Kidwell says "Some fellows marry poor girls to settle down, others marry rich girls to settle up." "See," said the visitor, as he bought a copy of the "News" at John McVie's bookstore, "that you are getting a number of new big bugs in your own." "That is the only kind we put up here," replied John with a touch of civic pride.

The Socialists, unable to get any worth while backing as such, worked the farmers for a bunch of suckers and launched the non-partisan league. North Dakota was the first state, thanks to the glib tongue and magnetism of a twopenny, to go under. The farmers of North Dakota are now finding that the Socialist schemes of the non-partisan league are no cheap states, and that their rosy hues cost money. Under the N.P.L. taxes on farm lands have risen from $80.00 per section to $250.00 per ditto. Now Mr. Hagen, president of the Scandinavian-American Bank of Fargo (which is the financial backer of the non-partisan league), has been convicted on a charge of exhibiting false entries in the Bank's books to the Federal Bank examiner. To make sure their own side is thoroughly expounded the N. P. League has a paper established in each county to which the state has compelled the diversion of all legal publication, state or county notices, estate notices, bank statements, etc. Those Albertans who got bit by the non-partisan microbe had better get easy for a little and study the work of the Socialists under this non-deguise.

PROV. POLICE SERVICE GETS RECOGNITION

(Edmonton Bulletin)

A treasured possession in "A" division, headquarters of the Alberta Provincial police, is an eight-day wall clock bearing the inscription: "Presented to 'A' division of the Alberta Provincial police by the family of H. Waterman, deceased, February 23rd, 1920."

The story that goes with the timepiece is one of service gladly rendered on the one hand, and service appreciated heartily on the other. It will be remembered that, on November 30th last, Richard Waterman, while hunting in the Shatin, Bank neighborhood, west of this city, was accidentally shot and killed by his partner, S. M. White, who mistook deceased for a moose.

The death necessitated action by the provincial police, who thoroughly investigated all circumstances; communicated with all known relatives, giving them available news as to the death of the deceased, the address of his friends, and then, later, attended to his burial. Generally, the police did everything in their power to assist the relatives.

Shortly following this, Fred M. Waterman, of the United States Steel Corporation, New York, through T. M. Grindley, local agent, sent a personal cheque to Inspector S. P. Piper, of the A.P.P., as an appreciation for what the provincial police, and consequently the eight-day timepiece was presented to police headquarters.

TEACH ME TO LOVE

(From Christian Science Journal)

There was a time when in my daily prayer I asked for all the things I deemed most fair, And necessary to my life success, Riches, of course, and ease, and happiness; A host of friends, a home without alloy; A primrose path of luxury and joy, Social distinction, and enough of fame To leave behind a well-remembered name. Ambition ruled my life—I longed to do Great things, that all my little world might view And whisper "Wonderful!"

Oh, patient God, How blind we are, until our shepherd's rod Of tender chastening gently leads us on To better things! Today I have but one Petition, Lord—Teach me to love. Indeed, It is my greatest and my only need: Teach me to love, not those who first love me. But all the world, with that rare purity Of broad, outreaching thought which bears no trace Of earthly taint, but holds in its embrace Humanity, and only seems to see The good in all, reflected, Lord, from Thee.

And teach me, Father, how to love the most Those who most stand in need of Love—that host Of people who are sick and poor and bad. Those tired faces show their lives are sad. Who toll along the road with footsteps slow, And heave more heavy than the world can know— People whom others pass discreetly by, Or fail to hear the pleading of that cry For help, amid the tumult of the crowd; Whose very anguish makes them cold and proud; Resentful, stubborn, bitter in their grief—I want to bring them comfort and relief; To put my hand in theirs, and at their side Walk softly on, a faithful, fearless guide.

O Savior, Thou the Christ—Truth, ever near, Help me to feel these sad ones doubly dear Because they need so much help! Help me to seek And find that which they thought was lost; to speak Such words of cheer that as we pass along The wilderness shall blossom into song. Ah, Love divine, how empty was that prayer Of other days! That which was once so fair— Those flimsy baubles which the world calls joys Are nothing to me now but broken toys. Outlived, outgrown, I thank Thee that I know Those much-desired things are all of no use. Like butterflies, have had their summer's day Of brief enchantment, and have gone. I pray For better things.

Thou knower, God above, My one desire now—Teach me to love.

SEVENTY-FIVE
AND BOARD

Yellow October sunlight poured through the west windows of the library. Myriad dust particles floated along the slanting sun paths that slid abruptly into shadow at the table's edge. The assistant professor of biology sat hunched over a book that lay upon the table before him, but he was not concentrated—at least not upon the text. With a thump of his fist that set the book jumping, he raised his head and looked about the big, quiet room.

The assistant professor took off his glasses and rubbed his eyes and stretched. Then he shoved his hands into his pockets, tilted back in his chair and surveyed the shelves of dog-eared volumes opposite him. It gave him an immense satisfaction, this bare, low-railed room with its brown walls and solid, brown tables and its rows and rows of books.

The assistant professor pulled out a crumpled bit of paper from his pocket and smoothed it out upon the book, after which he continued to regard it with an expression of ironical amusement. It was a check made out to him for the amount of twelve dollars and fifty cents; a sum he had received in payment of a scientific article which he had taken him a month to write. It was a good article, too, but according to more than one editor "not sufficiently popular in tone."

He had been trying to make a decision. This act of contemplation of the scrap of paper in his hands had served to topple the scales. He closed the book with a bang, uncrossed his long legs, rose from the table and ambled down the aisle to the door. Outside, he stood for an instant blinking in the strong light. When he closed his eyes they still registered printed pages. With combing of the feeling of a stranger he turned and scouted along the left-strewn path to the lake. Now that there was no longer any doubt about his departure the intimate landscape seemed all at once unfamiliar and different. He felt already detached from it—and sorry.

The moment the tip of her canoe veered round a bend in the shore line he recognized it and whistled. The assistant professor of English whistled her answer and waved an undisciplined paddle in greeting as her small craft slipped into sight.

"Want to come?" she called invitingly.

"Sure!"
"All right!" Climb in!"
The canoe nosed landward and plunged into the sand. With a lunge which shot her out into deeper water and himself, miraculously, into the boat, the new passenger embarked and took charge of the paddle.

"Where to?" he asked.
"Oh, anywhere," she replied and smiled at him.

He selected the most distant spot on the lake, laid the paddle across the canoe and rested his elbows on it. "Take longer this way," he explained.

She laughed and leaned sideways to watch a swirl of red and yellow leaves that went scudding along the surface of the water like a fleet of toy sail boats. The red of her tam o' shanter, however, held more fascination for him. At length the leaves whirled out of sight and she settled back in her seat to feast her eyes upon lake and trees and sky.

"I'm so sorry for all the folks who live in cities," she said.

"Why?"
She looked up inquiringly at the tion. He had snapped it out so abruptly it puzzled her a little. He had begun to paddle too, furiously. "Why?" she repeated. "Why, because they miss all this!" She waved a brown arm toward the rustling woods that shadowed them. "Wouldn't you hate to miss it?" she queried. The blades in his hand cut a long swath before he answered.

"I expect to miss it—after next Sunday," he said.

"You mean—?" Her question hung unfinished.
"Yes, I'm going away—to the city," he said dryly with a pucker of his mouth as if even the taste of the words was bitter to him.

"Oh," she bit her lips and tried to go on speaking naturally, but her brain appeared to be turning a somersault—and no words came.

"Yes," he went on dully. "I'm going away. Decker has a fellow here now who can take my place. They've given me these last two days till college opens to decide. Well, I've made up my mind. I'm going to the city to live in a hall bedroom and work in an office—and sell rubber. I'll loathe selling rubber, but I've got to stick to it till I can make a decent enough living to ask a decent girl to marry me. I'd rather stay here and go on with my work than anything else on earth, but I'll be damned if I'll ask my wife to wear second-hand clothes all her life or wear 'em myself. This digging along forever on seventy-five a month and board is getting my goat. Today this came. It was the last straw."

He drew the offending check from his pocket and flipped it into her lap. She read it and met his eyes when she had finished. "I don't know that I blame you much," she said.

They skinned along for a time, each waiting for the other to speak. When she had made up her mind that he never expected to open his mouth again, she gave in. "And how does the girl feel about it?" she inquired. "That would make some difference—of course. Hours passed for her before he replied.

"I haven't asked her yet," he said hesitatingly.

With a little shiver of relief she sank back in her seat and caught back the smile in her eyes so that he might not see. He went on blustering, man-fashion.

"I don't unreasonable, is it, to want enough to live on decently? I'm not aspiring to plumbers' wages, you know, or anything like that; but hang it, even a teacher's got to live."

She began speaking then and her voice became softer and fuller as she went on. "I know," she replied. "It's unfair and it probably will be for a long time to come, but you can't have everything, you know. Bob, you have the work you like best in all the world. Not many men can say that."

"I know all that," he said shaking his head in reply. "I've talked that way to myself, too, but all the same, steam-heated apartments in town rent for $50 a month."

"So you have been house hunting?"
He had not given the grace to blush. "Sure!" he exclaimed. "Why

Recommend Internal Bathing for Piles and Constipation.

If people who suffer from constipation, piles and the many ills resulting from accumulated waste in the intestines would realize what the J.B.L. Cascade is doing for thousands of people—who are being daily restored to health by its use, there would be a J.B.L. Cascade in every Canadian home. Mrs. E. Nighawander, of Green River, Ont., writes: "I purchased a J.B.L. Cascade from you about ten months ago and consider it the best money I ever invested. For years I have been troubled with constipation, ulcers in the bowels and piles, which all the money I spent on medicines and doctors only relieved temporarily. My J.B.L. Cascade has completely cured these troubles, and I feel a duty I owe to my fellow-men to endorse the Cascade in the very highest terms. No amount of money could estimate the value it has been to me. No home should be without one."

The J.B.L. Cascade is the only perfected invention for internal bathing. Keeps the system sweet and clean, cures constipation, headaches, rheumatism, and keeps you fit at all times. It is shown and explained at The Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co. Ltd. Phone or ask their free booklet all about it—or write Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College St., Toronto.

shouldn't he? Even a poor devil of a pedagogue can look, can't he?" She leaned forward, her eyes dancing, but for the moment she felt a little like his mother, nevertheless. "Boy," she explained slowly and emphatically, "when you're a school teacher you don't rent a steam-heated apartment in town; you get a cottage in the country and buy a good second-hand stove. For that matter, all the furniture is secondhand, but you needn't look like that—it's nice. You buy a few pieces at a time and put on three coats of paint, and then you enamel it, and if you want to you paint little flow—"

He could not wait for her to finish.

"And for an engendering," he leered, "you buy some pretty little tiny thing at the five and ten."

She shook her head defiantly till the red tassel bobbed. "No, you don't! You hunt up that lovely old smothery ring of your mother's that you once showed to—me."

He was still stubborn and unconvinced. "And then," he demanded, "when the house is rented and furnished—and everything—who pays the bills?"

Her patience reached its limit. "Can't you figure out anything for yourself," she demanded angrily. "Some land goes with the cottage, of course; enough to raise garden truck for—the family, and besides that you do whatever you can. Raise chickens or rabbits or bees or thoroughbred dogs or mushrooms, or anything that sells—how can I tell exactly? Personally, I've made several hundred dollars writing 'dettiekt' stories. Maybe your wife could do something like that—after the dishes."

The assistant professor of biology began to believe he had died and gone to heaven. He felt as if he were treading on balloons that bore him higher and higher, yet strangely did not break. The prospect of remaining at his work made him giddy enough, but added to that the idea of wife and home was still beyond his rapidly expanding imagination.

"Do you—do you suppose—it could be done?" he demanded, and tried to swallow. The red mouth beneath the red tam o' shanter was quivering, but the round little chin was firm. "Of course it could!" she said.

"Good!" murmured the assistant professor of biology fervently. "I almost believe it could, too. And you don't believe I'd be a low-down cad for asking the best little girl in the world to marry me and live like that?"

His hands moved forward, eagerly awaiting the touch of the steady ones that slipped into his own, while the paddle, unnoticed, slid into the water and floated away.

"I'm sure you wouldn't," she answered. "If—if you mean—me!"

CANADIAN MILLING
INDUSTRY

The Canadian milling industry has, since 1914, made progressive strides and flour exports between that year and 1919 increased nearly five times. Today this business has an annual capacity of slightly more than 55,000,000 barrels a year and new mills are being continually added. In 1909 Canada exported 115,059 barrels of flour valued at $521,282. By 1910 this had increased to 2,064,128 barrels valued at about $15,000,000. In the fiscal year of 1919, 3,196,806 barrels were milled at a value of $99,846,696.

Great Britain has been by far, Canada's best customer for flour, her imports from the Dominion of this commodity, for the last fiscal year, being equal to about 60 per cent. of the total or $56,600,000 out of nearly $100,000,000.

Exports by countries for the last year were as follows:—Great Britain $54,270,225; United States $29,794; British South Africa $17,309; Newfoundland $34,147,527; British West Indies $5,229,527; Other countries $3,147,556.

The Trade returns for the present fiscal year show that, as yet, the exports of flour are holding their own, though the European countries are again engaged in grain growing and milling. In the last available period of five months 4,928,164 barrels of flour were exported, as compared with 4,461,315 in the same period in 1918. Of these 3,912,405 barrels went to the United Kingdom; 38,423 to British Guiana; 146,596 to the British West Indies, 227,845 to France; 100,182 to Greece; 55,735 to Italy; 21,109 to Newfoundland; and 228,084 barrels to other countries. Great Britain took a little more than 1,000,000 more barrels than she did during the same period in 1918, other departments of the milling industry being large also, as the following figures show: oatmeal $4,032,567; cereals $4,247,248; bran, etc. $1,592,212.

Whilst on account of the change of conditions in Europe, the export trade may fall off considerably, the Canadian milling industry by reason of the activity produced during the war, is in a very strong position, and should be able to hold its own in the period of competition which is undoubtedly ahead.

"Lest We Forget."

WE need to be reminded quite as much as to be informed. Memory has been jocularly described as "the thing we forget with." Out of sight is apt to be out of mind.

An advertiser who relies on the memory of the public leans on a broken reed. The absence of its advertising from the newspapers has been the beginning of the end for many a firm. "The present suit-or hath ever the advantage over the absent lover."

A business that has achieved its magnitude or strength as the result of faithful advertising plays itself false if it suspends or ceases its advertising, on the grounds of economy. It is poor business vision which fails to see the principal feeder of business, and fatal judgment which cuts it off or interrupts its flow. Economies may be warranted, but they had better be effected in any other department than in the sales department—the department of revenue. Any course which shoves your customer back from you or hides you from your customer is ruinous. The man with the money needs to be constantly sought. Advertising is the great discoverer of new customers, the great retainer of old ones.

If you forget the public, the public will forget you

LEGISLATURE TOOK NO HOLIDAYS

Members Anxious to Complete Work But Criticize Government for Starting Session So Late.

Determination to railroad legislation through the house and get away from it as soon as possible, was the dominant motive of the members themselves. It was clearly demonstrated Thursday, when the legislature agreed to a motion put by Premier Charles Stewart to sit on Friday, a legal holiday. The premier said he was only putting the motion because he understood it was a desire of the majority of the house, and the ensuing discussion showed this plainly.

A. F. Ewing (Opp.), West Edmonton, George Hoadley (Opp.) Okotoks; Dr. T. H. Blow (Opp.), South Calgary; Capt. G. L. Hudson (Opp.) Wainwright, and J. G. Turgeon (Opp.) Hinton, were the loudest voices who spoke against sitting on the holiday, while members from the south, especially, urged that holiday sitting, saying they would not have time to go home over Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

MAY SIT NEXT WEEK.
However, the premier said that even with sitting on Friday, and also on Saturday, he doubted very much whether the house could close up its business by Saturday night, and that there would have to be sessions next week. Remarks on this subject also disclosed that a majority of the members desire to sit on Easter Monday, also a legal holiday.

In opposing the proposal to sit Friday, Mr. Ewing agreed that members were anxious to get away before Easter, but criticized the method of calling the legislative session so late, pointing out that the house had not assembled until February 17, last. He thought it was time to make a change, and suggested that in the future, the government call the session earlier or else arrange for one of the house so that business could be transacted without such pressure as was being exercised.

MANY BILLS COMING UP.
Dr. Blow said he thoroughly approved of Mr. Ewing's remarks, while Mr. Hoadley pointed out that the order paper of Thursday there are thirty bills not yet through the committee stage with numerous others not given second reading. Moreover, the bill dealing with the E.D. & B.C. railway was not yet even in. He admitted that the members were anxious to get away, but blamed the government for not having its bills prepared earlier.

Premier Stewart said that to obtain sessions of the house earlier in the year, it would be necessary to change the fiscal year of the province which now ends on December 31. At least a full month should elapse between the end of the fiscal year and the calling of the session to enable the government to prepare its financial budget. He admitted there might be some criticism of the failure to call the session at the beginning of February, but said he thought everyone would agree that there never had been a time when the legislature had been so busy with legislation. Both the speeches on the address from the throne and the budget had been curtailed to the limit, and the house had spent practically all its time on legislation and estimates. He wanted to thank the members for their assiduous attention to business.

NEED TWO MONTHS.
All of this, thought the premier, was a clear indication that, to accomplish its work in the future, would require a full two months' session. As for the bills that were still in committee stage, there was no reason why they should be lost on private bills, the fact of which had already been clearly brought out in the various committees of the house, and full consideration would be given to important measures as the government could not have the time to do so had no intimation of forcing the session to a close; the time of bringing it to an end rested entirely with the members themselves.

There had been a great deal of complaint this year about the numerous night sessions held by the house which had inflicted the greatest hardships on clerks and various departmental employees, not to speak of the newspapermen, who are compelled to work continuously at all hours of the day and night. There is a growing feeling of irritation among these subordinate members of the legislature. The members are interested in rushing through their work at top speed in order to collect their indemnity and get away at the earliest possible moment, which, of course, is quite natural. As most of the members work in delays, absenting themselves from time to time, overwork never bothers them.

SOME IMPROVEMENT.
There can be no doubt, however, that a great deal of time is lost at the beginning of the session, when for the first two weeks, few bills are ready for presentation. A great improvement was effected this year by the curtailing of useless speechmaking, but the government could save still more time by getting in the estimates earlier though a good excuse was offered this year because of illness among the departmental heads engaged in preparing them.

PEOPLE COMING TO SENSES, SAYS FARMER
Editor, Red Deer News.
Dear Sir:—
I believe, and I cannot tell you how glad I am, that the Canadian mind is coming around normal again. Won't it be good when we can sit down or stand up, as one may wish, and reason out our problems like real sensible men and women? Well, I believe that time is slowly but surely coming, and if you will allow me to, I will try and give you my reason for thinking so.

In the legislature at Edmonton, the members who still have had no time to stampede the government into amending the liquor act, and the government stood pat. One year ago they would have been frightened of their lives (politically, of course), and what would have been the result? I believe, and I cannot tell you how glad I am, that the Canadian mind is coming around normal again. Won't it be good when we can sit down or stand up, as one may wish, and reason out our problems like real sensible men and women? and tell them what laws to pass are not in responsible government. They are strong on order-in-council; they would ignore all representative bodies elected by the people. They believe the problem of government should only be trusted to a few self-appointed, self-enriched, goody, goody people.

Now in regard to the coming referendum in this province, the temperance people, so-called, would abolish interprovincial trade in liquor. Mr. Ewing, I do not claim to know everything, and I am not always right in my conclusions, but I think I am always wrong, and the way I look at this matter is this: We have now the act just passed, and I think I wrote it; it is just what they asked for, and it is what they asked all people to support. It is not, and never was, and never will be, the total prohibition; it was a compromise, and was plainly set forth before we voted that it did not mean that we could not have liquor in our homes for medicine, or for beverage if we wished, and on those grounds we were asked to support it. FARM ACCOUNTING AND THE INCOME TAX

Farmers' Account Book Published by Commission of Conservation, Demonstrate its Usefulness.

A Saskatchewan farmer writes to the Commission of Conservation: "I received your Farmers' Account Book, and think it is a very simple, handy book, and I found it very useful in keeping track of everything on the farm. I entered it up about every week, and it shows a farmer's farm intelligently all out his income tax returns without a book such as this."

Many farmers have written commending the book for this and other reasons.

The Commission of Conservation issued the Farmers' Account Book primarily to promote better farming through encouraging better business methods on the part of the farmer. The imposition of the Federal Income tax has incidentally provided another, and very important, argument in favor of its use by all farmers, except such as have already a satisfactory system of keeping accounts.

It will not be out of place, therefore, to give a few hints regarding the manner in which the Farmers' Account Book should be used in filling out the income tax return.

The first and most important thing to notice is that the farm accounts must be kept absolutely separate from the household accounts. Farm expenses are allowed as deductions from income, but household expenses are not.

For example, feed purchased for stock is a farm expense, but provisions bought for the family is a household expense. Similarly, insurance premiums paid on the barn, granary, etc., and depreciation and repairs on these buildings are charged to the farm, but similar expenses on the house are personal, just as they would be in the case of a city man.

Secondly, it must be noted that, with one or two exceptions, the Income Tax Branch takes no account of either receipts or expenses other than cash. The exceptions are: under Gross Income, the item "Value of Products Consumed on Farm," under Expenses Claimed as Deductions from Income, the items "Board of Farm Help" and "Depreciation," also "Rent," if paid wholly or partly in kind.

Wages for members of the farmer's family are not allowed to be claimed as a deduction unless paid in cash. Increase in live stock is not required to be declared as part of income, neither is the loss of live stock through death permitted to be deducted. Hence, even if the farmer opens and closes his books on the first of January so that his business year corresponds with the calendar year (which is not at all necessary), the total farm receipts and expenses shown on page 25 of the Account Book will not correspond with the similar items to be declared on the income tax return.

The differences, however, simplify rather than complicate the task of filling out the return, as it is not necessary to make an inventory. The cash receipts and expenses are kept track of on pages 1-15 of the Account Book and may be readily picked out and transferred to the form supplied by the Income Tax Branch.

The only troublesome item is likely to be "Value of Products of Farm Consumed on Farm." This can best be tried up from the household accounts, if such are kept, as it includes all the butter, eggs, milk, meat, poultry, vegetables, etc., raised on the farm and consumed in the house. In cases where such products are turned at a store for other articles, transactions of this nature should be entered on the books as though the storekeeper had paid the farmer in cash and then the latter had immediately spent the money in the same store. For example, if three pounds of butter are traded for a pair of gloves, the value of the butter must be entered as a cash receipt and credited to the farm. The gloves, being an article of personal use, cannot be charged against the farm as a business expense. They should be entered in the farmer's own personal account, if he keeps one, but, so far as the farm is concerned, they are a receipt, a part of the farmer's income, and not an expense at all.

If a farmer has these two simple rules in mind, namely: (1) Keep all receipts and expenses separate from household and personal expenses, (2) Disregard, with exceptions above noted, all receipts or expenses other than cash, he cannot go far astray in filling out his income tax return from the data supplied by his Farmers' Account Book—P. M. Baldwin.

To be successful, farming must be a business. Failures in farming are as often due to neglecting the business side as for any other cause. Farmers who neglect to keep exact records of their receipts and expenditures should ponder the following extract from the February "Teller," issued by the Sterling Bank:

"When asked recently by the National Association of Credit Men what in their opinion was the chief cause of business failures, 10,000 merchants replied almost to a man: 'Failure to keep books.' About the same time, another investigation, among 5,000 merchants taken at random from all parts of the country, showed that only 10 per cent kept records that told them: 'What they had in stock; what profit they were making; what their expenditures were for seed, advertising and other items of overhead; what particular part of their business was profitable or unprofitable.'

Every farmer who does not keep books should make up his mind to begin. Send to the Commission of Conservation, Ottawa, for a free copy of the "Farmers' Account Book."

GRANTS ANNUAL PASSES

C. P. R. Encourages Loyalty in Service.

The C.P.R. to encourage loyalty in service, and recognize the principle of co-operation has, through the Great Western, the W. & N.W., and the Canadian Northern, announced a new departure which, it doubts, be much appreciated. This is the granting of annual passes to officers and employees and their wives under the following conditions:

Employee on a general superintendent's district, who has had continuous service for a period of not less than ten years, will be granted an annual pass good over district on which employed.

Such employee for twenty years and over, will be allowed annual pass good over eastern or western lines upon whichever employed. Employees of any other department of the service will enjoy the same privilege as above, stating the territory over which pass is desired. Head office employees who have had fifteen years' service will receive annual passes over eastern or western lines where employed. Women employees are to be treated the same as men in this connection. This action expresses the policy of the C.P.R. to aim at the contentment and loyalty of the employees of whom there is an army of 60,000 at present, including all the staff.

The Pension Fund, a free gift of the company, was the thought of Lord Shingoes. The employees contribute nothing. Already the operation of the fund has wrought great benefit. The effect of it has been to increase the contentment and loyalty of the employees, to give the owner a more efficient operation, and to stimulate the general purpose and interest of the company.

The employees of the Canadian Pacific have been the beneficiaries of the Pension Fund, which offers protection in declining years. Millions of dollars have been paid out in operation of the fund since its inauguration.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF RHEUMATISM

Entirely Well After Six Weeks' Treatment With "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. AMEDEE GARCEAU

82 Hickory St., Ottawa, Ont.
"I was for many years a victim of the terrible disease, Rheumatism. In 1913, I was laid up for four months with Rheumatism in the joints of the knees, hips and shoulders and was prevented from following my work, that of Electrician."

I tried many remedies and was under the care of a physician; but nothing did me any good. Then I began to take 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a week I was easier, and in six weeks I was so well I went to work again.

I look upon this fruit medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives', as simply marvellous in the cure of Rheumatism, and strongly advise everyone suffering with Rheumatism to give 'Fruit-a-tives' a trial."

FEAR A GENERAL STRIKE OF STOCK HANDLERS IN U.S.

Chicago, March 31.—Oscar F. Nelson and Carl Spangler, department of labor mediators, arrived today from Washington to attempt a settlement of the strike of 500 members of the Livestock Handlers' union, which has thrown nearly 10,000 men out of work and brought about a cessation of butchering at the stockyards. Dennis Lane, international secretary of the Meat Cutters' union, with which striking workmen are affiliated, was expected to arrive tonight to aid in bringing about a settlement.

Paul Chute, the union has asked for federal mediators to help Martin Murphy, president of the stockyards labor union, who declared the men would "stand by their guns and fight."

Packing companies today found themselves with scant material to keep their plants in operation and faced the prospect of closing before Saturday unless the strike ended. A shortage of fresh meat in the Chicago area brought about a sharp advance in prices.

Patrick Griffin, a union official, today declared that the controversy was not settled in a few days stock handlers in packing houses in all parts of the country would be called out. Meanwhile, stock normally destined for Chicago was routed to other packing points in the west. Chicago packers usually send out $2,000,000 a day at this time of the year for livestock, and this business has stopped.

RECORD AGAIN BROKEN DURING BULL SALE

Average of $256.50 Made For Two Hundred and Nine Bulls.

With a total average of $256.50 for 209 bulls sold during the 1920 bull sale held in connection with the Edmonton Spring Live Stock Show, the Edmonton sale has created another record and established a further reason for the holding of a sale of purebred stock under the auspices of the Cattle Breeders' Association. It brings the breeders together, and also gives the buyers an opportunity to see the stock in competition with others. This is the biggest average that has ever been received at the Edmonton sale, the figure for other years as shown in the exhibition records showing an interesting comparison.

The high price of the sale was realized by the Sleeth calf, Kibblesh Champion, bred by S. P. Sleeth of Sleeth from his imported Kibblesh bull. This bull is from the same family as White Heather, and has a record of 100 bulls sold at an average of $188.50; in 1916, 87 bulls sold at an average of $148.

Two Hereford bulls sold for $500, and the Angus were a bit disappointing. One of them, and Carl Reinhardt of Chipman the other. Mr. Finner paid $250 for both of the ones he bought. One 'Ayrshire' was sold by W. A. Palmer of Colinton to T. Tucker of North Edmonton for $100.

In looking over the association records it is interesting to note the increases in the prices of the Short-horn cattle. These increased steadily from 1914, when the average was $142.72; to 1915, when the average was $234.26, and then in 1919 the average slipped to $200.00 and back in 1920 to $275.50.

CANADA MILITIA PERMANENT FORCE ALL ORGANIZED

Ottawa, April 2.—Thursday marked the passing into history of the official name "Canadian Expeditionary Force." Yesterday the transfer of all the remaining units under that designation to the permanent Canadian military force was completed, and all that now remains is a glorious tradition of five and a half years' splendid service.

The C.E.F. had its birth early in August, 1914, when the order-in-council authorizing the raising of the battalions that trained at Valcartier was issued. Since that time over half a million men were on the strength.

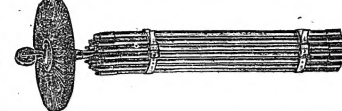

Only a few hundred men remained on the strength when the order was given to turn the remaining units into the permanent force.

MELSTROM & LINDSAY

War Shipping Organization Demobilizes

One of the Transports used by the British Ministry of Shipping (Canada). Sir Arthur Harris, inset.

The British Ministry of Shipping (Canada) which during its five and one half years of existence practically ran the Canadian shipping service, clearing over 3,000 trans-ports and liners from Canadian Ports and Portland, will, according to an announcement by Sir Arthur Harris, its Director General, be demobilized on March 31, next.

All correspondence and inquiries relative to the affairs of the Ministry in Canada after that date is to be addressed to Mr. E. Macburn, Director General, British Ministry of Shipping, No. 105 Broadway, New York.

The activities of the Ministry in Canada, including the Overseas Department which it succeeded, date from August 1914, at which time the Dominion Government, appreciating the importance of securing the service of an expert Overseas Officer, conferred with the heads of the large Canadian Transportation Companies with the result that at the present time the Canadian Pacific is the only company of the Government Mr. now "Sir" Arthur Harris, who acted as Director Overseas Transport up to the 5th September 1918, at which date the Department was absorbed into the British Ministry of Shipping. Sir Arthur Harris continuing in charge as Director General in Canada.

During the period 1914-18 the Director General practically controlled the export trade of Canada, inland and overseas, and that the work was well and impartially performed was evidenced from the fact that the Railway and Steamship interests were satisfied, and the general business of the Country continued with a minimum of disturbance.

The development of the port of Montreal may be realized by the number of vessels cleared from Canadian Ports and Portland between the 25th August 1914 and 31st December 1919, viz:—

1914	1915	1916	1917	1918	1919
Transports.	Transports.	Transports.	Transports.	Transports.	Transports.
40.	132.	362.	737.	875.	515.

During the above mentioned period in excess of sixteen million gross tons of munitions, war material, and supplies, were moved inland and overseas.

The Director General was supported by an efficient staff drawn from the service of the Canadian Pacific. They did good work for Canada and the Empire, and the fact that it was done quietly, almost to the point of self-effacement, is recognized and appreciated.

The General Public little knew the onerous obligations devolving on the successful administration of an undertaking of such magnitude.

When the history of Canada's participation in the Great War is chronicled not the least of its achievements will have been the successful administration of its transport service.

The report of the Select Committee of the Imperial Government on national expenditure issued as a White Paper in London on the 6th January last pays a deserving tribute to the effective and successful administration of the affairs of the Ministry of Shipping not only in the United Kingdom, but in various Outposts of the World to which the operations of the Shipping Control was extended.
